

ABSTRACT

An automated method and system (100) for identifying and measuring the value and risk associated with tangible elements of value, intangible elements of value and external factors and using said measurements to optimize financial performance, risk transfer and business activities.